Recent events show that, if any vacancy in the Advisory Council follows the promotion of Claus Spreckels' attorney, Mr. F. M. Hatch, another sugar man will be put in. There is absolutely no chance there for a man who is devoted to annexation pure and simple. He is regarded as a dangerous and incendiary character who might explode a bomb under the framework of the proposed republic—that is the Planters' oligarchy.

I happen to know that several drafts of this proposed change of Government have been drawn by the planter loris.

A large proportion of the inhabitants of the United States have their sensibilities wounded by the sacred observance of Sunday. They regard it as an infraction on the rights of baseball, dime museums and beer gardens, and they are not all Socialists and infidels either. When the Royalists utter their blatant denunciations of Provisional Government officials on the street and in hotels and other public places they are probably not keenly appreciative of the feelings of Annexationists standing near. The exQueen did not consider anybody's feelings but her own when she attempted her coup d'etal.

EDITOR STAR: The general public interest in the possible election to a vacancy in the Advisory Council suggests a comparison of the situation to that it 1802, when an election was held on tits island to fill two vacancies in the House of Nobles.

There seems a disposition in certain quarters at this juncture to resent any suggestions from the public on public affairs through political organizations, and those inclined to give any attention to such nominations are charged with "bossism."

The movement entitled to the credit for this change is for the present under the leadership of an oligarchy, yet its chief object is to secure the broadest form of representative government, and its members are by personal character so sensitive to public sentiment that the Government is in fact representative.

EDITOR STAR—Has it come to the pass that the God-given right of petition has been abolished, abridged or weighted with conditions? It looks that way. Nearly a fortnight ago the respectful and proper petition of the Annexation Club touching a prospective vacancy in the Advisory Council, was sent forward. Still they did not like annexation. They were alraid of it. Now they are a fraid more than ever. Kather than go into the United States they would fix up a Planters' Republic which they could forever control and by means of which they would flood the land with Asiatios and make this a poor place for whites. That would be "stable government" after their own fashion. Naturally, Messrs. Spreckels and Davies would have much to say about it. To fix things up for this Planters' Republic scheme the sugar men in the Council began work a long time ago, Whenever they could find or make a vacancy in the Advisory body they filled it with a sugar man, an attorney for sugar men, an employe of sugar men or with a steamboat man whose dividends or salary depended on sugar transportation.
